Democratic Campaign To Open At Morehead

Clements To Speak Here October 4

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 18.—With more harmony than could be found in a hall full of barbershop quartets, nominees for State offices and their friends by the score met here last weekend to plan their campaign, with every evidence of complete agreement that an overwhelming victory lies ahead, seasoned observers reported.

Democrats of every stripe, many who had not been seen around a State headquarters in years, met and exchanged warm handshakes and backslaps and told one another of their pleasure in finding the party united as it has not been in a generation.

Plans for the campaign's official opening at Morehead, Saturday afternoon, Sept. 27, were perfected and assurances were definite that leaders of both sides in the recent primary were working together, shoulder to shoulder to make this a record event.

Two special trains have been arranged for, one to bring the party's stalwarts from the Big Sandy country, the other starting at Louisville to accommodate central and western Kentucky enthusiasts, of whom, headquarters spokesmen said, there are a great many more than in years.

A state-wide radio hook-up will take the Democratic opening to many thousands unable to attend.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 18.—Ben Kilgore, of Franklin, one of Kentucky's outstanding agricultural leaders and campaign chairman in the recent Democratic primary for Harry Lee Waterfield, Hickman county publisher, will make a radio speech in behalf of the Democratic state ticket on Wednesday evening, September 24 from 6:30 to 6:45 o'clock p.m. over Station WHAS.

Announcement of Mr. Kilgore's speaking engagement in behalf of the party nominees was made today at state headquarters by Tom R. Underwood, state campaign chairman. In his radio address, which will be the only Democratic campaign speech in behalf of the party's formal opening at Morehead on Saturday, September 27, Mr. Kilgore is expected to urge the election of Earle C. Clements, of Morganfield, as governor and the party's candidates for all other state offices. He is also expected to announce his active support of the party and all of its nominees.

Following the Morehead rally, expected to be featured by Democratic oratory and a love-feast for upward of 25,000 persons, Earle C. Clements, nominee for Governor, and the others on the ticket will go to Murray, Saturday, Oct. 4, down in the Gibraltar of Democracy, for a second big meeting expected to draw another record crowd.

The Louisville special train will leave that city at 8:30 o'clock Saturday morning, Sept. 27, arriving at Morehead at 12:15 o'clock. It will leave Morehead at 4:30 in the afternoon, reaching Louisville at 8:15. The round trip fare will be $5.25. Mayor E. Leland Taylor, chairman for arrangements, said O. B. Springer, Henderson county chairman, reports at least 50 Democrats will be aboard from that city.

The other special train will leave Elkhorn City at 6 o'clock in the morning, arriving at Morehead at 12:30, leave Morehead returning at 5 o'clock, arrive at Elkhorn City at 11 that night.

Truman Concerned Over World Affairs

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (UP)—The grave concern over the trend of world affairs was poignantly today by President Truman's decision to install James Forrestal as Secretary of Defense without further delay.

After receiving a White House radio report on the international situation, Mr. Truman dispatched an order from the Battleship Missouri yesterday that Forrestal be sworn into his new post at once. Previous plans called for the ceremony to take place after the president's return to Washington later this week.

MSC Squad Rounding Into Shape Fast Says Coach Jim Moore

Coach Jim Moore of Murray State College today showed signs of happiness as he stated, "I'm impressed with the speed at which our club is rounding into shape."

"With the exception of a few injuries our boys are coming along fine," stated Moore.

The old injury jinx that hit the squad last year is once again showing its ugly face, stated Moore, as he continued practice without the use of Tom Covington, wingback, and Buddy Hewitt, center, who are nursing practice injuries. Neither of these boys will be available for at least a week.

"Several of our boys are suffering from heat rash and although it's not serious it does prevent them from wearing pads and taking part in the work," stated Moore.

Moore's biggest tackle problem has been solved with the return of "Doc" Sowell to the campus. Moore said, "All the boys are working hard in the line with all the tackles competing for the starting roles. All the boys are making a bid for the job."

Murray is still filling in the vacancies left by lettermen from last year's squad that were expected to return this year.

Bill Pink, tackle, has gone into business. Billy Horner, quarterback, has transferred to the University of Tennessee.

At the mention of gamblers and racketeers, fought those foes to the left. He was forced to give up his radio broadcasts after an operation last June. However, he was busy writing when he collapsed.

Physicians decided he was too ill to risk removal to a hospital. Mayor O'Dwyer, addressing a Constitution Day crowd in City Hall Plaza yesterday on the nation's heroes, paused to say:

"One of those men is critically ill today. He needs your prayers. For all the sacrifices he made in his life, I could ask no more. I could ask no less. I refer to my predecessor, former Mayor LaGuardia. Do pray."

LaGuardia served the city as mayor for 12 years, longer than any other man except Richard Yonick, who served from 1789 to 1801. Prior to that he served in Congress.

"At his bedside was his wife, Marie, whose kitchen succumbed at sidestepping high food prices. LaGuardia passed on to his radio listeners and his readers.

3200 Employees On Strike At Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 18 (UP)—At least 3,200 employees of two firms here staged off their jobs today in what International Harvester Co. officials called "strikes" but union officials said were "continuous meetings."

Lloyd James International Harvester employees Local 236 representatives of the Farm Equipment Workers (CIO), said 2,000 members meeting at Union Hall were protesting a "Southern differential."

James wired William Riley, industrial relations head at International Harvester's Chicago office, that "we are meeting in continuous session waiting for a reasonable offer of standard out of Chicago wages for the Louisville plant."

Some 1,200 members of the Carpenters Union (AFL) walked out of the Morgan Co. when the continuous meeting was called.

Hurricane Moving West-Northwest at 15 mph; Warnings Hoisted From Florida To Louisiana

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 18 (UP)—The worst hurricane in a decade left South Florida littered with debris today with millions of dollars in property and crop damage, at least two dead, several injured and widespread looting in Miami.

Torrential rains flooded roads and endangered bridges, isolating some areas.

All over South Florida there was a confused snarl of tangled communications—broken power lines, damaged homes and buildings, and flattened crops.

The state highway patrol, Army and Navy troops and Red Cross disaster workers were in action to provide relief. At least 10 Navy planes were delivering supplies to the stricken areas.

A truck loaded with 2,000 ration units of three meals each left the Jacksonville Naval Air Station at 4 a.m. for Sebring where some 10,000 refugees needed food. Other rations were to be dispatched from MacDill Field.

At West Palm Beach one man was electrocuted by a fallen power line, the Red Cross reported. Several were injured by whirling debris.

The storm's worst damage was concentrated along the twin palm beaches, Fort Lauderdale, and Miami and its surrounding communities.

On the West Coast Fort Myers caught the brunt as the hurricane passed into the Gulf of Mexico. At Hialeah racetrack near Miami more than 1,500 persons rode out the storm in the clubhouse. An expectant mother in the crowd was rushed to a hospital while the winds whipped 100 mile gusts.

In Miami's skyscraper pal atop the 19-story courthouse some 200 prisoners huddled in cells.

BULLETINS

PENSACOLA, Fla., Sept. 18 (UP)—President Truman proclaimed the Florida hurricane to be a state of emergency today as the giant storm hurled over the Gulf of Mexico toward Pensacola after causing millions of dollars damage in the Miami-Palm Beach areas.

At the South end of Lake Okeechobee, feared despite its 35-foot levees since its waters drowned 1,800 persons in a similar storm on Sept. 16, 1928, some 400 of U.S.

Dr. J. E. Dillard To Speak At Revival In First Baptist Church

Dr. J. E. Dillard, promotional secretary of the Executive Committee of the Southern Baptist Convention, will open a revival at the First Baptist Church Sunday morning, September 21, at 11:00.

Dr. Dillard is one of the best men in the Baptist work, according to Rev. Braxton B. Sawyer, pastor of the Murray church. For 20 years he was pastor of the South Side Baptist Church of Birmingham, Ala., where a million-dollar church plant was constructed during his ministry. Upon leaving there he took the above mentioned position with the Baptist denomination when all institutions were facing bankruptcy.

In 15 years Dr. Dillard had led Southern Baptist in becoming free of debt and enlarging all their institutions both in size and service.

Dr. Dillard is to speak at both services, September 21 and will speak each night at 7:30 the following week, closing his campaign Sunday morning, September 28.

Pastor Sawyer also recommends Dr. Dillard as being one of the best inspirational speakers among Baptists. Dr. Dillard is one of the most up to date men from the standpoint of reading that Baptists have. Dr. Dillard claims that he has averaged reading three books per day for the past 30 years. He has a library of more than 10,000 volumes and has read most of them. The public is invited to attend all these services.

UN Assembly Has Stormy Sessions; Russia Blasted For Continued Use Of Power Veto

UNITED NATIONS HALL, Flushing, N. Y., Sept. 18 (UP)—

United Nations delegates today rebuffed a violent Russian counterblast to the American proposal to abandon the original UN concept and build up the vetoless 55-nation assembly as a rival of the Big Five dominated security council.

Soviet delegate Andrei I. Vishinsky may have some surprise proposals of his own. His boss, Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, took the UN by surprise at the opening last year by proposing universal disarmament.

UNITED NATIONS HALL, Flushing, N. Y., Sept. 18 (UP)—Soviet UN Delegate Andrei V. Vishinsky accused the United States and Great Britain today of "using" the United Nations for their "own selfish and narrowly conceived interests."

He also charged that both states had "ignored" the UN and that their tactics were "undermining" the UN.

The assembly continued its general debate after the 14-nation steering committee last night overrode Russia's objections and voted 12 to 2 to recommend inclusion of the Greek case on the assembly's agenda as requested by the United States.

Soviet delegate Andrei A. Gromyko reiterated his same charges against the Truman doctrine in his efforts to keep the assembly from discussing Greece. But in the end only Poland supported him.

Today's speakers all were on the side of the West against Russia and were expected to support Marshall's offer to drastically limit the use of the veto to decisions involving enforcement action only.

Marshall's drastic double-barreled proposal to curb the use of the veto and build up the powers of the assembly—surprised many delegations who did not expect the United States would go so far.

There was overwhelming agreement with Marshall in general principle, but some cautious second thoughts disclosed considerable concern lest a showdown with the Russians on this delicate issue might break up the UN completely.

Mrs. Melugin Retires As Red Cross Secretary; Has Seen Fifteen Years Of Faithful Service

This week marked the close of 15 years of service as executive secretary of Calloway County Chapter American Red Cross for Mrs. B. Melugin. She has tendered her resignation due to illness and has been succeeded by Mrs. Mary Pace, who has been her assistant.

Said Mrs. Melugin, "I'm just all tired out. I don't feel that I have the strength left to direct the Red Cross in another crisis."

Served During Depression That there have been plenty of these crises in Mrs. Melugin's career is shown in the Calloway County records. During the first months of her services the chapter was active in rendering aid in the worst depression in the history of the United States. "Tons and tons of food were rationed to the people of Calloway County, and thousands of yards of material were cut, sewed and distributed locally."

Recalls 1937 Flood In January, 1937 the Ohio and Tennessee rivers overflowed and made it necessary for Paducah to be evacuated. The Calloway County Red Cross chapter was notified that refugees would be sent in. Eight thousand refugees were registered by the local chapter, 35,000 meals were served, and $8,544 were expended in the emergency. Awards to "people of Calloway County for loss of property totaled $9,310."

Helped Servicemen

During the war Mrs. Melugin rendered invaluable assistance to service men and their families. She answered calls both day and night. Her sympathy and understanding during many crises will long be remembered.

After the war, the local Red Cross chapter performed all the tasks normally taken care of by the Veterans Administration. At present there are more than 2,000 ex-service men and their families in the active files of the Calloway County chapter.

Mrs. Melugin also served as Red

Cross representative for the Navy Unit at Murray State College. The records to Calloway County Red Cross chapter speak for Mrs. Melugin's efficiency. When she assumed her duties as executive secretary on October 1, 1932, there was only $1.25 in the treasury. Now there is a much more substantial balance.

Worked For $25 Per Month

For ten years Mrs. Melugin worked for a salary of $25 per month, and in addition was required to furnish her own car. In 1942 the salary of the executive secretary was raised to $50. This was increased to $85 in 1943, to $100 and later $115 in 1945. Not until 1945 was there any paid help in the office.

Mrs. Melugin retires with the record of a task well done, the thanks of many Calloway Countians whose burdens she has shared and made lighter, and the best wishes of many friends to a useful citizen.

Untrue Picture

Robert C. Ruark, Scripps-Howard Staff Writer, has given the American public some fancy reading this summer. He has been touring European countries, and if we are to believe all he has reported the United Nations may as well call it a bad job and dissolve.

Fortunately Mr. Ruark has covered only one side of life in Europe—the evil side. And he has told us nothing new. Most folks knew there were prostitutes in Paris before he ever went there; that there is a black market and inflation in all countries including the United States; that folks with war profits are buying new automobiles and crowding gambling halls and night clubs; that there is a lot of drinking going on, that American soldiers yielded to temptation and left a mighty big crop of war babies in their wake wherever they went.

We even knew that some army officers are inclined to be over-bearing, that enlisted men don't get the same sleeping quarters, food or recreational facilities that officers get. Mr. Ruark probably had better accommodations than ordinary sailors while he was in the navy, because he was an officer.

The Scripps-Howard writer probably didn't learn while he was abroad that there is actually less drinking everywhere than there was a couple of years ago, because he doesn't seem to have interviewed folks who are on the "water wagon." He might be interested to know there was 32.6 per cent less whiskey sold in the United States the first six months of 1947 than during the same period last year, that the consumption of alcoholic beverages in England is off more than 50 per cent and that the largest class of people in the European continent, the peasants who till the soil, are enjoying a higher standard of living than they did before the war, despite the fact they are producing smaller crops.

In getting a true picture of conditions in Europe, or anywhere else, one cannot rely too strongly on the report of a man who seems to have spent most of his time in the "cess pools of iniquity" that abound in all countries, including our own. We would certainly not like to have a European writer tour the United States and report from the same type of places Mr. Ruark visited in Europe.

Conditions are bad in Europe. There is no mistake about it. They are bad here, too, but not hopeless. Neither are they hopeless in Europe and it is refreshing to talk to a man who has recently visited Europe and mingled with a different class of people from those Mr. Ruark seems to have gathered his information from.

We have had that plen recently in talking briefly with Mr. Ralph Wear, a man who has devoted fourteen years to Boy Scout work, and who was one of the leaders chosen to chaperone delegates to the Boy Scout jamboree at Mohegan, France.

Mr. Wear found conditions in Europe mighty bad, of course, but he found no such hopelessness and despair as Mr. Ruark reports. He found that the chief concern of people is to provide themselves with food, but he says they are getting it, at least in the countryside where food comes from in all countries. He reports the greatest fear in Western Europe is Communism and the general feeling is that another war must be fought between the Democracies and Russia, and people look to the United States for their salvation. His report so nearly coincides with the so-called Truman Doctrine and the Marshall Plan that it convinces us we are on the right course in our United Nations now in session.

It may take reporting such as that done by Mr. Ruark to make us realize what an important role we are going to have to take in the rehabilitation of Europe, but it also takes a more conservative report, such as the one brought back by Mr. Wear to convince us the role is not a hopeless one.

If we read too much about mistakes made by our army in Italy under the command of General Lee we may overlook the fact he has accomplished one of the greatest tasks ever assigned to the head of an army of occupation. His job ended when the Italian peace treaty became effective on the 15th of this month and was immediately won. Scripps-Howard and I did not know Mr. Ruark's assignment until after General Lee retired as he is now doing.

"Good morning, ma'am. I'm from the gas company. I understand there's something in the house that won't work."

"Yes. He's upstairs."

You can't demand affection and get much of it. If it weren't for paying taxes, many of us could pay our bills on time.

Few people are so vain and irresponsible that they forget to eat dinner, even when alone.

When the temperature is in the high nineties, it's just about impossible to look or feel important.

Please pass the salt, pepper, ketchup, Worcestershire, and horse radish—the steak is tough.

The American people will be willing to pay prices that have no relation to value," you said, Mr. Secretary. Not me. I canvassed every meat stand in the market looking for anything at all to eat.

I found plate beef at 59 cents a pound and a lot of hot dogs at 10 cents. Top round steak ground hamburger was 90 cents and a knob of butter, 15 cents.

Mr. Secretary. The tough chunk of meat, the butcher's scraps, the waste, the arrangement and the wife's love on the nights there is a good meal.

Out in the fish stands was the best meal in the place. It was mostly yellow, with a narrow streak of red in the middle. As I pondered a piece of meat as big as a melon, I heard him say, "Twenty-one cents a pound. No bargain for you and me."

So you see what you did to me, Mr. Secretary. I want to eat these words. I want to eat over a phonograph.

Not everybody in Calloway county subscribes to The Ledger & Times but nearly everybody reads it.

On Sunday, September 14, a crowd gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Urey Houser in honor of their birthday which fell on the 13th.

A bountiful dinner was spread on improvised tables set under the trees in the yard. Those enjoying the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Houser, Burey Houser and daughter Wilma Fay, Mr. and Mrs. Oley Riley, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Housen and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Housen and children, Shirley Lee and Willie Joe, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coyle and Marie and Peggie, Mr. and Mrs. William Holder, Mr. and Mrs. Oley Riley, Mrs. Martha Bridges, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Bridges, Mrs. Christine Wyatt and Fern and Wayne, Mrs. Ida Grant, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Curt Newsome, Ernie Chambers, W. C. Smith, Misses Lula Smith, Marion Bridges, Doris Edwards, Sue Houston, Dorothy and Linda Hurt and Jean Riley, P. L. Riley, Donald Edwards, James Earl Hurt, Mr. and Mrs. Urey Houser and children Jewel Edward, Lydia Grey and Gerald David, and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hicks and Glenda Fay.

The American people will be willing to pay prices that have no relation to value," you said, Mr. Secretary. Not me. I canvassed every meat stand in the market looking for anything at all to eat.

I found plate beef at 59 cents a pound and a lot of hot dogs at 10 cents. Top round steak ground hamburger was 90 cents and a knob of butter, 15 cents.

Mr. Secretary. The tough chunk of meat, the butcher's scraps, the waste, the arrangement and the wife's love on the nights there is a good meal.

Out in the fish stands was the best meal in the place. It was mostly yellow, with a narrow streak of red in the middle. As I pondered a piece of meat as big as a melon, I heard him say, "Twenty-one cents a pound. No bargain for you and me."

So you see what you did to me, Mr. Secretary. I want to eat these words. I want to eat over a phonograph.

80th Congress Passes Soil Fertility Bill

Another look at the first session of the Eightieth Congress shows that most farm legislation enacted consists chiefly of measures in the "must" category. Appropriations and other bills dealing with present programs received attention, but a long list of other proposals is waiting for the second term next year.

One of the principal hibernating proposals is the Senate's National Soil Fertility bill, S. 1251. This measure was introduced by ten Senators, including the chairman and a majority of the Senate Agriculture committee. Hearings were completed, but the bill was not reported out in time to beat the adjournment deadline and so is marking time until next year.

Aimed at hitting the problem of losses in the country's soil fertility, as the name implies, it not only establishes a government policy on this issue but seeks to show farmers how best to apply plant food to their land. This is provided in a proposed test-demonstration program on not more than 2 per cent of the farms in each state. Fertilizer for this purpose would be supplied by part by the government from a plant manufacturing concentrated phosphatic goods to be erected at Mobile, Ala., and operated for up to five years by TVA, after which it would be sold. There are other provisions which will have to be skipped in this limited space.

This legislation is the outgrowth of more than five years of the fertilizer situation by American Farm Bureau Federation, which is leading the drive for its enactment. As is to be expected in such a controversial issue, there is powerful opposition to S. 1251. APBF brought out some interesting facts during the recent hearings. President Edward A. O'Neal led off, stringing of 28 witnesses, representing farmer-co-op fertilizer plants, agronomists, college leaders and farmers in from the fields, who gave the Senate committee plenty to think about.

Clinching the case for the bill was the final statement by APBF's general counsel, Donald Kirkpatrick. He refuted many of the claims made by the fertilizer industry and brought to light some facts not too widely known. In a lengthy, well-documented statement, he pointed out that:

1. Federal money for erecting the Mobile plant would "not put the Government in the fertilizer business" or "destroy free enterprise," as charged by opponents of the proposal. Three reasons: (a) the plant has to be sold to farmer co-ops or the plant food industry, etc.) before its sixth birthday; (b) it can't begin to produce enough fertilizer to cut into commercial sales; and (c) up to 50 per cent of the goods it does turn out will be earmarked for the demonstration program.

2. Farmers can save money if there is available to them more concentrated fertilizers. They have been paying for "fillers," such as sand, dirt, etc., which are in much of the available fertilizer. The Department of Agriculture reported this year that "if the use of fillers had been reduced 50 per cent in 1945, about all that was technically feasible, the national fertilizer bill would have been reduced at least $8,000,000."

3. Despite the fertilizer industry's claim of making goods in much more concentrated form through the years, USDA figures show that the average plant-food content of mixed fertilizers consumed in the United States has climbed only from 13.50 per cent in 1880 to 1.65 per cent last year. That's only a little over 8 per cent improvement in 45 years.

4. Fertilizer companies have been 21.65 per cent last year. That's only prosecuted, indicted or criticized in 1906, 1916, 1926, 1927, 1940, 1941 and 1943 for practices including "restraint of trade" and "violating anti-trust laws."

Blood River News

Miss Mary Mitchell went to Detroit the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Curran and Mr. and Mrs. Guthrie Gibson attended the Grand Ole Opry Saturday night.

Kentucky Belle, I would be very glad for you to call over the week end and maybe that a large snake won't bed up with us like one did with you when we were Macedonia pals. A cold snake is worse than the song that I often hear over the radio: "Keep Those Cold Icy Fingers Off Of Me."

Kentucky Belle, I was very glad to see your hubby pass down Macedonia way a few days past. Hello Lucille! How I would enjoy seeing you and if I win a new car in a contest over the radio we will go places with Kentucky Belle at the wheel. Also the last time that you were to see me you said that you could not relish ham and eggs so come real soon and we will go fishing before breakfast.

Macedonia's farmers cut tobacco last week one day at Paye Wheeler's and next day at Aylon McClure's. The hot, tired men folks enjoyed a good dinner and supper which was well worth their day's labor. In the afternoon "the tired" women assisted Mrs. Wisheart in canning peas.

Clifton Mitchell, home from a Detroit factory, jumped out in the tobacco crew and the hot weather almost got the best of him.

Mrs. Nell Smith of near Concord was earning fruit the past week with a pressure cooker and she layed down with her little girl for a few moments rest and dropped off to sleep and the cooker exploded and broke a few cans.

Mrs. Mary Wisheart, Mrs. Annie Willis and Mrs. Laurine McClure canned 72 pints of corn one afternoon the past week at Mrs. McClure's. Aylon and Jesse McClure gathered the corn from the stalks and Pete Wisheart shucked the ears for the lazy women while they scraped the cobs.

Mrs. Monnie Mitchell kept little Cornelia Green one afternoon the past week while her mother was gone from home.

A stray dog has been roaming around Macedonia for a few weeks. The yellow pest has four white feet and end of tail has a white touch. James Brown of near Old Salem but formerly of near Macedonia, has a friend who wish the very handsome young gentleman "go lucky" with his new bride.

Several Macedonia have met in person the relatives of Miss Barbara Jo Walker, the very popular "Miss America", formerly of near New Hope.

Misses Ethel and Verda Albritten of Arizona but formerly of near Macedonia, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Hendon. It has been 30 years since Miss Ethel has been here.

Miss Alma Freeland and Mr. Richardson of Puryear were married recently.

Just An Old Custom In South Pacific
NUKULAU ISLAND, South Pacific (UPI)—It's a merry old custom when a big party is given in the Tonga Islands, and goes like this:
The firm of W. R. Carpenter (Fiji), Ltd., honorary agents in Suva, Fiji, for the Tongan government, entertained the visiting Tongan rugby team at a picnic on Nukulau Island.

It was a good party, at the conclusion of which the massive Tongans, courteously explaining this was an old Tongan custom, graciously heaved their two principal hosts into the sea, clothes and all.
Water supply, crop rotation, livestock raising and haying equipment were discussed at a meeting at John Moody's farm in Henry county.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

WHEN Miss Dolly came into the house, Maggie was in the dining room. She came in slowly, looking pale and fatigued.

"It was horrible, Maggie," she said. "I didn't like Mr. Angel, but to see him lying there..."

She sat down and put her hair back from her forehead.

"I thought I could have a little peace—a little happiness... I need it so... Maggie, do you know why Mr. Angel came here?"

"No, ma'am."

"He came here to ruin everything for me—if he could. You see, an uncle who was very fond of me died last month, and he left me some money; not very much, but enough to give me a little freedom."

Mr. Angel was the executor. I asked him for just enough of that money to let me get away. But he refused. He said I couldn't have anything for a year at least, until the estate was settled. I couldn't wait a year, Maggie, shut up in that miserable prison of a house."

"Well..." said Maggie.

"I borrowed on it," Miss Dolly went on. "It wasn't a good way to do. I knew that well enough. I had to pay an exorbitant interest, and I had to get it from a rather queer man. He makes a business of doing that, advancing money on legacies."

Mr. Angel found out about it. He said he was going to tell my uncle. Mr. Camford, and that would have done me a great deal of harm. Maggie, isn't it a strange thing that there are so many people like that? People who can't bear to see anyone else happy?"

"Well, yes, ma'am..." said Maggie, doubtfully.

She thought, I didn't hear anything in the beginning about her coming here to be happy. She said it was to get away from that man. She said it was to translate a book—and what about that? She hasn't been straightforward with me."

"BUT, Miss Dolly, I thought you came here to get away from that man," she said.

"I'll never get away from him," said Miss Dolly, with somber despair.

Maggie paused, embarrassed but resolute. "I don't mean to be prying, but... That letter you showed me... I mean, it was signed 'Otello.' I mean, that was Desdemona's husband, wasn't it?"

Miss Dolly glanced at her with dark, blank eyes.

"Yes," she said. "He's my husband."

There was a silence.

"I'll tell you about it," Miss Dolly went on. "It was years ago in Paris. I went there after my parents died, and I was dreadfully lonely and unhappy. I met this man... I needed somebody kind and generous and understanding, and I thought... I won't go into all that. Even before we got back from our honeymoon, I saw what a ghastly mistake I'd made. I left him and I came home. I didn't tell anyone."

"Not even your aunt and uncle, Miss Dolly?"

"They're the last ones I'd ever tell," she answered. "They'd never understand. I didn't know what he was like, what a reputation he had. They'd despise me, Maggie. They'd wash their hands of me. And after all—they're all I have. They must not know, ever."

She leaned back, lost in some melancholy vision.

Maggie looked at her with an uneasy wonder. Here before her very eyes was a woman who had had the tragic experiences that one read about—an unhappy marriage, grief, disillusionment; she had lost

Carolyne.

Misses Mary Lou Waggoner, Dorothy Nell Smith, and Rhoda Sue Mahan, Mrs. Grayson McClure and Sandra and homecomers, Mrs. Lloyd Wilson and Mrs. Gela Rose.

Those sending gifts were: Mesdames Terry Lawrence, Hubert Farris, Nelsa Waggoner, Curt Jones, Galen Thurman, Jim Borders, Grace DeBord Harmon Rose, Edwin Stokes, Leon Collier, Milton Walston and Rudy Barnett.

Ladies of Circle III Meet At Riley Home

Circle III of the First Methodist church met with Mrs. E. W. Riley, Miller avenue Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock. Mrs. T. L. Gregory spoke using as her topic "Children, Their Education and Recreation of Today."

Mrs. Elbert Lassiter gave the devotional.

A short business session was presided over by Mrs. J. B. Farris, chairman.

Mrs. Riley was assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Jack Bailey, in serving party plates to the 10 members present.

her home and her money; she was threatened in danger.

"I SUPPOSE this will get into the newspapers," Miss Dolly said. "About poor Mr. Angel. But nobody needs to know anything about the rest of it, anyhow—I mean about his being in the boat."

"But, Miss Dolly, I've got to tell."

"There's no reason why he should have to go to court and prove things. It's outrageous to think of his being bullied and tormented for nothing."

"Miss Dolly, I don't think Captain Hofer would bully anyone who was innocent."

"Nobodies going to find out about this. And if anyone does, I'll take the whole responsibility. I'll say I told you not to mention it."

"Nobody could tell me what's right for me to do," said Maggie. "You mean you will tell? You don't care what trouble you cause for Neely, who hasn't done anything wrong?"

"Well, you couldn't call it the right thing to do," said Maggie. "Poor Mr. Angel—"

"He was dead!" cried Miss Dolly. "I know it," said Maggie. "But he shouldn't have been treated that way."

MISS DOLLY sighed. "I can't argue with you. You're so obstinate. I'm going."

"I don't know. I don't care. I can't stay here and face this scandal. You're going to bring down on my head."

"Well, I can't see how it would be a scandal for you, Miss Dolly. You hadn't anything to do with it."

"Everybody will know why Neely did it. He did it to save me from being disgraced. And once that Hofer starts poking into Neely's affairs, he'll find out that I took the house for Neely and paid the mortgage rent."

"Miss Dolly!"

"It's a privilege to help an artist like Neely. But I know very well what Hofer and everybody will make of it. I won't stay here one more minute."

"Miss Dolly! Please tell me where you're going!"

"I don't know. I've got eight hundred dollars in my purse. That will be enough to take me somewhere—"

Maggie clasped her hands in an unconscious gesture of despair. She had never before been faced with a moral dilemma. Right was right and wrong was wrong. But not now.

It was plainly her duty to tell the police everything she knew about Mr. Angel. But she could not let Miss Dolly go off alone at this hour of the night with eight hundred dollars in her purse.

"I—I'll try not to tell anyone," she said. "Only if I have to take an oath."

Eastern Kentucky Resources Studied

Farm and forest land in Eastern Kentucky could support about one-third of the present population at living standards as good as those elsewhere, according to a report just published by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station.

The Experiment Station study was made to find out whether timber could be restored to its former importance as a resource for the people of Eastern Kentucky.

The report says that unless new resources appear, there are two courses of development open to the area. One course is toward denser population, lower incomes, greater subsidy, the use of more cleared land for farming, and less forest.

The other course is toward sparser population, higher incomes, less subsidy, less farm use of land, and more forest.

As applied to the Quicksand area in Breathitt county—scene of the study—the first course, toward more but poorer people, would result in a population of 2,846. The second course, however, would result in a population of only 779 people. In the same area there were actually 2,206 people in 1940.

Maestro Johnny Vaught Of Ole Miss Leary About Kentucky's T-Formation; To Play Sat.

By HERB CHESHIRE
United Press Sports Writer
ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 18 (UP)—Johnny Vaught, the Ole Miss maestro, no doubt wondered today whether his scrubs were that good or whether his variety was that bad—or whether, in the final analysis, Kentucky has the right idea using the T-formation.

On Tuesday the Ole Miss variety gave up five touchdowns to the "Egged 'B" team. Yesterday the scrubs stacked the first string for three scores.

But today, despite further rehearsing against the tricky Kentucky offense, Vaught still couldn't see his Rebels set for the Wildcats by Saturday. There was a hint, however, that the game might be a wide-open affair.

Yesterday Vaught added a Rebel offensive session to the drill program. And Charley Conerly, who captains the Ole Miss team, responded with a sharp display of passing.

Vanderbilt also had a look at the Northwestern "T" in preparation for its opener, but Commodore Helms were reported only mildly pleased. On the other hand, offensively the Commodores were hard to beat. Yesterday the variety lined up on the "B" team's 10 yard line and scored several times, with Bernie Rohling, plunging and Jamie Wade skirting ends and tackles.

Things were somewhat brighter elsewhere around the SEC circuit. For instance, the east was due to come off Jim Crow's right leg today and doctors were to determine whether the slim LSU halfback would be able to play against Rice in the Sept. 27 opener. LSU's variety also looked good in yesterday's scrimmage. All-Conference quarterback Y. A. Tipton tossed several touchdown passes as the top string pummeled the fresh in a two-hour, semi-offensive scrimmage.

And at New Orleans, Tulane Coach Frnka promised a let-up from the tedious drills his Green Wave have been having lately. He said he would cut his practice session from two to one per day, starting either today or tomorrow.

Frnka also beamed over the news that end Ed Heider and halfback Al Waller will be ready for Alabama on Sept. 27.

Tonight, meanwhile, the Mississippi State squad will work out for the first time under lights in preparation for the arc-lit opener against Chattanooga Sept. 26.

Coach Alfry McKen has shifted Fred Morganti, 220-pound veteran guard, to tackle, replacing Doug Taylor, who is out with an injured knee.

No baleful sounds came from Tusculooza, either, where the Alabama Tide appears well set for its Saturday night opener against Mississippi Southern. The Tide worked the "T" too—with three teams. All looked good defensively but downfield blocking was still ragged.

But from the Auburn plains, King Carl Voyles sent up a plea for the Tide to rip Mississippi Southern to shreds. The point is that the Plainsmen tackle the Southerners next week.

Voyles said he hoped he might get a "better conception" of a probable first team from current scrimmages. Right now he had ends Ray Williams, and Bill Waddell, tackles Harold Lannon and Max Autrey, guards Floyd Fulmer and Bob Cannon, and center Hal Herring working the "first" line and backs Russ Inman, Freddy Gafford, Zac Jenkins and Bull Cehran the backfield.

In Athens, Georgia, Coach Wally Butts was looking for someone to catch quarterback Johnny Raich's heaves. With Capt. Don Edwards in light tops, flankman Weyman Sellers appeared to be the only adequate pass receiver in the lot.

Kentucky's Paul Bryant Needs Backs And Would Reshuffle Conference Schedule

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Sports Writer

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 18.—Moving into his second year at the helm of Kentucky's Paul Bryant would be happy with the addition of a few triple-threat backs and a Southeastern Conference schedule reshuffle which would eliminate Alabama, Georgia and Tennessee from the race.

Bryant was put down into the Wildcat attack in 1946 and came away with seven victories. His club stronger this time. But because of a general strengthening in the Southeastern Conference, his change will be a real test. Bryant's main strength is his line. Bryant's main strength is his line. DO YOU OWN A HOME?
If not, why not? Is it because you cannot own a most desirable one. That is no excuse; most everyone can own their home, be it a humble shelter.

It is not too late; they are not as expensive as they will be. If you expect to rent you must pay the cost and a profit to the landlord. Uncle Sam's President Roosevelt has been a heap of help.

One may have to deny the family of some social activities and some sport events; but ere the old birthdays you will be happier not to receive orders to move. It is a pleasure to enter a two-room home. My first home was a one-log room and a lean-to, bought on credit, the happiest we ever had.

We have been keeping house 55 years and only rented two different years on change of locations, and I never inherited anything, but a little energy. I have apartments to rent to 14 families. I am entitled to profit on investment and upkeep. So if you will not provide your own home don't grumble about paying your landlord.
